Attached letter from Assistant Attorney General Robert C. Mardian relates to our denial of a request from his Division that we furnish a secure place for an informant to be interviewed by one of his attorneys and for us to participate in the interview. Letter also urges that development of this informant be undertaken by the Bureau in accordance with an agreement cited. The Director observed in his notations that we have no secure places of this type and that it is not our policy to participate in joint interviews. The Director also noted that the results of the Departmental attorney's interview with the informant are necessary before we can determine what further action we should take, and asked if we agreed to any joint operation of this informant or only liaison.

This matter relates to a confidential informant of the Metropolitan Police Department (MPD), Washington, D. C., who provided information regarding the bombing of the U. S. Capitol as well as other information relating to New Left activities. She claimed to have information to the effect that portions of the "McNamara Study" were to be sent to the Chinese Communists in Canada and that portions of it had previously been sent to the North Vietnam Peace Delegation in Paris. When Departmental attorney Guy Goodwin telephoned on 8/10/71 he said informant wanted to meet with him the next day and said that for security purposes would we select a safe place for the meeting. He also asked if we desired to have an Agent sit in on the interview.

REC-66

In compliance with the Director's instructions, in the absence of Mr. Goodwin from his office on 8/11/71, we told Departmental attorney Joseph J. Tafe that we would not be able to assist Mr. Goodwin in the selection of a place where he might meet with the informant and that we did not desire to have anyone sit in with him on the interview, but that we would appreciate receiving any information developed during interview pertinent to our investigation in captioned matter. This was confirmed by letter 8/12/71.

ESPIONAGE-X

Synopsis:

Anonymous caller tells on 6/23/71 of conversation relative to arrival of "Pentagon Papers" in Portland for publication in Portland newspaper. Describes subsequent activity and identifies car involved. Auto registered to California resident, [REDACTED] later identified as [REDACTED]

-P-

DETAILS:

At 8:55 a.m., Wednesday, June 23, 1971, [REDACTED] Portland, Oregon, advised that at 8:45 a.m., that date, he had received an anonymous telephone call from a male who described himself as an ex-serviceman from Vietnam. This caller said that at 11:00 p.m. the preceding night, June 22, 1971, he had seen a three to three and one half pound package of classified "Pentagon Papers" [REDACTED] [REDACTED] Portland, Oregon. He believed the residence to be the fourth house from the corner on the left-hand side of the street. The caller went on to say that whoever had the documents was attempting to contact HERBERT LUNDY of the "Oregonian," a Portland daily newspaper. An individual at the "Oregonian," however, had instructed that efforts should be made to contact Mr. LUNDY on the following day, June 23, 1971.

According to [REDACTED] the unidentified caller was unable to furnish the specific address of the house involved and said that he did not even know the color since it was too dark to tell. The caller declared, however, that the documents involved had come from some politician in California.

HERBERT LUNDY is the editor of the Editorial Page of the "Oregonian."

At 9:55 a.m., June 23, 1971, [REDACTED] advised that he had just received a second telephone call from the same individual. This time the caller said that the package of papers had left [REDACTED] residence at 9:35 a.m., that date, in possession of a white male described as 35-40 years old, 130-140 pounds, 5'5" to 5'7" tall, blond hair, gray at temples. The caller said that this individual departed in a 1962 blue-green Chevrolet bearing California license RLD-658. The occupant of this car was alone and before leaving, had conversation with a man in the house, and the names of "ROYAL" and "DOC" were used. The possessor of the papers said that he was meeting someone in Raleigh Hills, a suburban district of Portland.

Records of the Motor Vehicle Department of the State of California disclosed on June 23, 1971, that California license RLD-658 is issued to a 1962 Chevrolet four-door sedan, Vehicle Identification Number 20969W145670, registered in the name of [REDACTED]

Records of the Driver's License Division of the California Department of Motor Vehicles in Sacramento, California, as of June 28, 1971, showed that a driver's license in the name of [REDACTED] had been issued in November, 1970. These records further show that this individual's correct name is [REDACTED] described as born August 7, 1935, 5'6" tall, 137 pounds, blond hair, and blue eyes.

At 4:00 p.m., and again at 4:47 p.m., Thursday, June 24, 1971, the anonymous caller contacted by telephone a Special Agent of the FBI at Portland. He refused to furnish his identity but he elaborated on the previous information furnished [REDACTED]. He said that between 5:00 and 6:00 p.m., on Tuesday, June 22, 1971, he was in a downtown restaurant in Portland and heard a conversation between a man he believed to be [REDACTED] and an unknown male. This conversation centered around a large envelope held by [REDACTED] and "Pentagon Papers" covering the period between 1962 and 1967. The man believed to be [REDACTED] said he had a package waiting for him at the airport of four to four and one half pounds of the same material. This man and his companion speculated as to different concerns to contact regarding the material. Mention was made of the "Oregonian." The "Post Intelligencer" in Seattle and the King Broadcasting Company in both Portland and Seattle. The caller further advised that he had followed these two men from the restaurant to a large home in a very exclusive neighborhood of Portland, a home located on S. W. Buena Vista. The two men remained inside this residence for 15 minutes and then left, still in the above described Chevrolet. One man got out of the car at the Gold Coin, a Portland nightclub, and the driver went on to the house on North Fiske Street and entered. The caller was still not sure of the exact house involved because of the darkness.

The caller continued that on the following morning, June 23, 1971, he returned to the North Fiske Street location and observed the man believed to be [REDACTED] the Chevrolet parked on Fiske Street. Subsequently, a distinguished looking, well-dressed man, arrived in a late model Buick Electra and had a conversation with the man thought to be [REDACTED] displayed a large envelope, the man said that he would contact LUNDY and would meet in Raleigh Hills. Thereafter, the caller followed the man thought to be [REDACTED] Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor, located in a shopping center at Raleigh Hills [REDACTED] entered and joined three other men at a table. The caller then said that he thereafter lost sight of [REDACTED] and had not been able to locate him since.

The caller added that he had heard from friends at the "Oregonian" that the newspaper had some of the "Pentagon Papers" and expected to receive more.

At 10:20 a.m., on Friday, June 25, 1971, the anonymous caller again advised by telephone [REDACTED] and also to S. W. Buena Vista on the morning of that date. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] described the house as a large, green, one story residence with a hedge and a red rose trellis, and a walkway along the south side of the house. He further said that the residence on S. W. Buena Vista was located at 2709 S. W. Buena Vista. He described this home as a very large brown house and said that he had learned that a man by the name of [REDACTED] lived at the address.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] He apparently formerly resided on Woolsey Court in Portland, specific address not known and moved to the Fiske Street residence on March 5, 1970.

The current Portland City Directory shows the residence at 8017 North Fiske to be unoccupied. The directory however shows that [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] residence was listed in the directory as [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] He apparently has lived at this address since November, 1967, at which time he was said to be unemployed but had a private income.

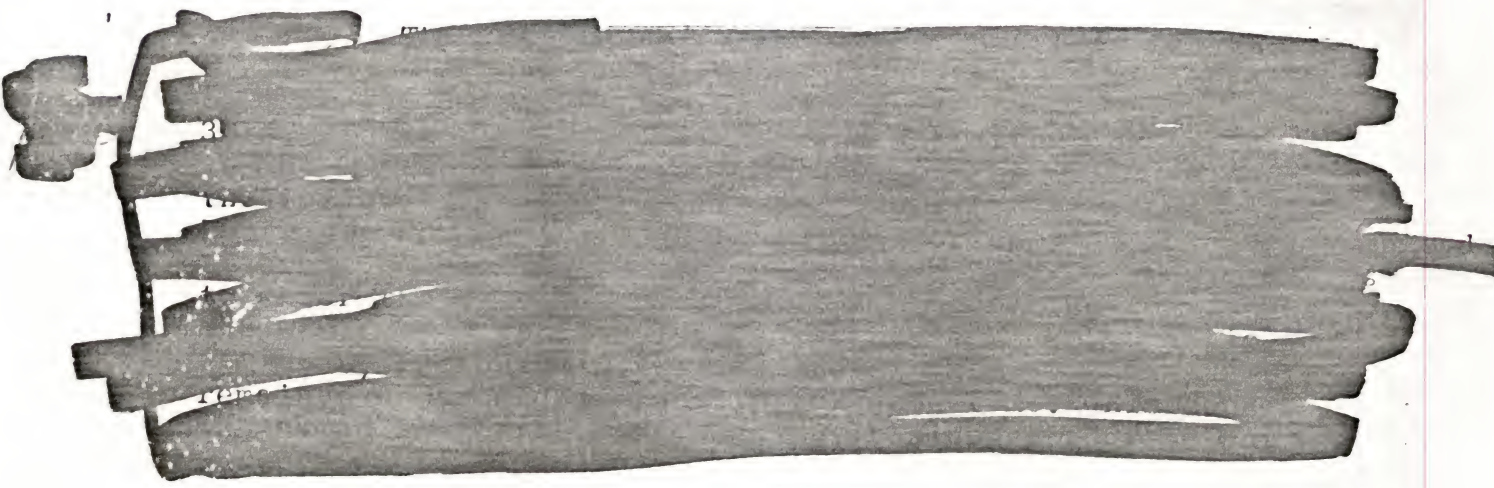

[REDACTED] He is married to [REDACTED] and the two have a [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] has sizeable private income from a large trust which he apparently inherited. This trust is made up of a large block of stock in the Willamette Valley Lumber Company, stock valued at approximately $1,000,000. From this stock [REDACTED] derives an annual income of $15,000.

[REDACTED]

The Republic National Life Insurance Company was located at 3988 North Central Expressway, Dallas, Texas, and was engaged in general insurance business.

The "Oregonian" began publishing a series of articles concerning the "Pentagon Papers" in its June 25, 1971, edition. In a page one explanation, the "Oregonian" stated:

"The Oregonian presents today, first of a series of articles summarizing the portions of the controverted Pentagon Papers as published previously by the New York Times.

"The papers resulted from extensive studies of American involvement in the Southeast Asia conflict as authorized in 1968 by Robert McNamara, then Secretary of Defense.

"These papers add extensively to public knowledge of administrative decisions on Vietnam issues by the two previous administrations. The first article concerns contingency planning for air attacks on North Vietnam, starting in September, 1964. Our readers are invited to give then careful reading. See Page 21."

The lengthy article on Page 21 then was prefaced with the following:

"This is one in a series of articles on a secret Pentagon study of American participation in the Vietnam war. It was obtained from other sources by the New York Times through the invesgative reporting of Neil Sheehan. The series was researched and written over a three month period by Sheehan and other members of the Times staff."

Subsequent articles carried a similar preface. All of the above comments by the newspaper indicated that the "Oregonian" articles were apparently a rehash of the material published previously by the New York Times.

Departmental attorney Kevin Maroney telephoned at 2:10 p.m. 8/17/71 and stated that he had learned that Senator Mike Gravel (D), Alaska, who last June read to press representatives from the "Pentagon Papers," has claimed to have turned over the "Pentagon Papers" to Beacon Press of Boston, which has announced it will publish all 47 volumes of the papers. Maroney asked if the Bureau had any knowledge of what Gravel actually had in the way of "Pentagon Papers" and if we could determine who runs Beacon Press.

We have conducted no investigation regarding the papers which Gravel claims to have but after checking our Ellsberg file we located Washington News Service releases concerning his claims and at Maroney's request furnished him Xerox copies of these news releases.

Assistant Special Agent in Charge [redacted] at Boston was asked at 2:33 p.m. whether that office had any material readily available regarding Beacon Press and who runs it. [redacted] called back at 3:11 and was able to furnish following from Boston files and a check of Dun and Bradstreet records:

Beacon Press was incorporated under Massachusetts laws in May, 1963, as a nonprofit organization and filed under the organizational name Unitarian Universalist Womens Federation, 25 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts. Its incorporating officers were Constance Burgess, Executive Director; Mrs. George Kimball, President; and Mrs. John Shoemaker, Treasurer. The Womens Federation is closely associated with the Unitarian Universalist Association, which operates 600 units of womens federations in the U. S. and Canada, as well as two diabetic camps. Files of our Boston Office show that Beacon Press as of 1965 was keeping abreast of developments in leftist circles; it was on the mailing list of the Daily Worker, the Peoples Daily World, and Political Affairs, all communist publications.

Memorandum for Mr. Brennan
Re: MC LEK

Mr. [REDACTED] said that an effort was made to touch base with press contacts for a rundown on the Beacon Press but those telephoned said they were then on their way to a 3 p.m. press conference at Beacon Press, as this group was going to print the "Pentagon Papers." Rampton said an effort would be made to ascertain results of this press conference.

At 3:22 p.m. information as provided by our Boston Office was furnished telephonically to Maroney. It will be confirmed by furnishing to Maroney a teletype from Boston which will incorporate the foregoing.

ACTION:

For information and record purposes. We plan no inquiries regarding publication of the "Pentagon Papers" by Beacon Press in the absence of a specific request from the Department.

Boston is requested to handle enclosures in accordance with the two provisions of subpoenas issued to Boston, Massachusetts.

For the information of Boston, enclosure number two was not needed by WFO in view of serving of subpoena dated 8/13/71, copy of which is enclosure number one of this communication. Subpoena and copy issued 8/16/71 are, therefore, being returned to Boston for appropriate disposition.

Special Agent [REDACTED] who obtained the records of toll calls from the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies of Washington, D.C. and Maryland, has been advised by telephone company officials of the Maryland Office that toll call records for telephone number 301-942-9097 (THOMAS W. OTTENAD) are original records and would be required by C & P Telephone Company of Maryland official in the event it is necessary for that official to personally present these records to the Federal Grand Jury at Boston.

to conference

Transportation from WU to the Peace and Jobs conference tomorrow at Council Plaza will be provided free of charge. Two mini-buses will conduct continuing service from the Women's Hi-rise to the conference between 8:30 and 10:30 a.m., with return trips between 4 and 6 in the afternoon.

The conference is structured as a "community-wide teach-in" on the Indochina War and converting the economy to peacetime production, according to Henry Etzkowitz, WU assistant sociology professor and co-chairman of the steering committee for the Labor-University Alliance.

Etzkowitz termed the conference the first of its kind in the country, and the first occasion which has gathered such a broad coalition to demonstrate opposition to the war and discuss ways of ending it.

John Ullman, professor of management at Hofstra University, will lead off the conference at 9 a.m., speaking on the problems of converting industries committed to heavy military production to peacetime production.

At 10, UAW President Leonard Woodcock will talk on the impact of the war's end on jobs and industry. Following at 11, James E. Williams, mayor-elect of East St. Louis, will address the conference on the racial aspects of changing the economy.

After a break for lunch, Daniel Ellsberg, senior research associate at MIT, speaks on the Nixon administration's current strategy in the Indochina War. He will be followed by Senator Harold Hughes, who will present a specially prepared address on the war.

At 3:30, William Corsin, a retired colonel, presents the final address, on the consequences of this country's involvement in Indochina. Also at this time, workshops covering the war, conversion of the economy, political action to end the war, racism and the war, and the problems and possibilities for a labor-university alliance, will begin.

Admission to the conference is free. Its location is Council Plaza, 300 South Grand.

The April 20, 1971 issue of Student Life on Page 7, contains an article "ELLSBERG Views Need to End War as American Challenge". The complete article follows:

Elisberg views need to end war as American challenge

By RAY BEAUMONT

Daniel Elisberg, senior research associate at MIT, spoke in St. Louis last spring following the Cambodian invasion. He spoke Saturday at the Peace and Jobs conference, noting that the war had now reached into Laos. And he speculated that next April a similar program would find the anti-war movement discussing the invasion of North Vietnam.

"Turning Nixon out in 1972 does not fully meet the challenge we face as American citizens," Elisberg said. "We must end this war before and without burning down North Vietnam."

Noting that the President appears to fear a McCarthyite reaction from the right if he pulls out of Indochina, Elisberg suggested that Nixon may feel compelled to invade the North. But, he guessed, the invasion will not include ground troops—it would consist of the largest bombing raid in history.

The scenario could easily be covered under the guise of a raid similar to the Son Tay (prisoner of war camp) raid which was carried out last fall, according to Elisberg. Only after the raid had ended would the American people be told the truth—as part of the most generous peace proposal ever offered to North Vietnam.

Elisberg acknowledged that these comments were speculative. But the strategy is not inconsistent with the administration policies that have governed the war for two years.

The question which Elisberg addressed himself to was how to prevent this from happening.

program, which included Senator Harold Hughes, he did not advocate relying on the Congress. Though Congress does have the power to end the war, through legislation and/or filibuster, "they will not end the war this year," Elisberg said.

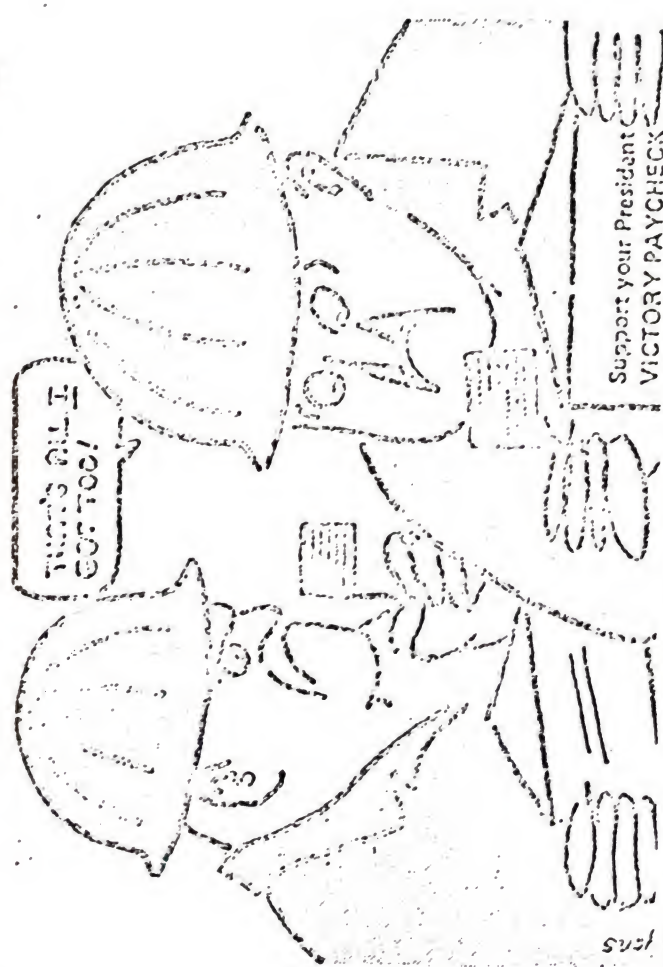

He noted that, even if the McGovern-Hartfield amendment to end the war passes the Senate this year, it must also pass the House. The Democratic caucus in the House, however, recently refused to endorse December 31, 1971, as a deadline for withdrawal from Indochina.

Though Congress would be glad to follow the President in ending the war, he continued, they are not willing to accept the entire responsibility for ending it themselves. He indicated that the attitude in Congress is that the war is a mistake—but the attitude necessary to take action on ending the war has to be that the war is a crime.

Referring to statements made earlier in the program by UAW President Leonard Woodcock that his union did not endorse the April 24 demonstration in Washington, Elisberg said that the rejection of any action which communicates the need to end the war contributes to the continuation of that war.

The power, he concluded, is in our hands. It is up to us to assume the responsibility to end the war.

Senator Hughes spoke immediately after Elisberg. Hughes replied directly to Elisberg, and said that "I think the conscience and feeling of this country is such that there is a 50-50 chance for the end of the war when it is to us this year—and House as well."

"It is time to set the stage for total withdrawal from this war," Hughes said. He added that he is prepared to participate in a filibuster to hold up the military appropriations bill if a sufficient number of Senators will join him. Approximately twenty Senators would be needed for such a filibuster to succeed, he noted.

The conference Saturday was the beginning of a coalition which hopes to "generate work in our community on those things which have to be done," according to Harold Gibbons, president of Teamster Joint Council 13. "There is much good to be obtained from working together," Gibbons said, in reference to the combination of students and the labor movement.

But, at least at this point, the rand-and-illy union workers are not convinced the war is end-that has formed is with concerned individuals in the labor movement, and not labor itself.

The work which is necessary, then, involves educating the worker to the connection of the war and the economic and social problems which workers face. Perhaps those labor leaders involved in the Alliance, such as Gibbons and Woodcock, count on members of the university community to help in this effort.

Yet the question must be faced whether time has already run out. Though the student anti-war movement has not totally died, it has reached a point of growing apathy. It is past the point where students would agree and be encouraged by Hughes' comment that it is time to set the stage for ending the war. That stage was set last year, if not before, and it did not accomplish the war's end.

The May 8, 1970 issue of Student Life, Page 1, contains an article "Public Forum, Discussions Approach Crisis", which indicates the appearance of Senator CHARLES ~~X~~MATHIAS of Maryland and ELLSBERG at Washington University on that day. u u

The May 12, 1970 issue of Student Life on Page 3, reports the appearance of MATHIAS and ELLSBERG under the caption "Mathias, Ellsberg Applauded, Hissed".

Copies of these two complete articles follow.

It is noted that the above discussions involving MATHIAS and ELLSBERG was under the sponsorship of the Vietnam Education Committee of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the Student Academic Committee. These committees arrange activities for special events at Washington University.

The appearance of ELLSBERG received no coverage in the St. Louis daily newspapers.

Public Forum, Discussions

Approach Crisis

Senator Charles Mathias (Republican, Maryland) and Daniel Ellsberg (Senior Research Associate, Center for International Studies, MIT) will participate in a series of discussions today, focusing on continued U.S. intervention in Southeast Asia.

At 3 p.m. they will participate in an informal talk session with students and faculty in the formal lounge of Wohl Center on the general topic of U.S. intervention.

At 8 p.m. in Graham Chapel they will speak as part of a panel discussion sponsored by the Vietnam Education Committee of the Faculty of Arts & Sciences and the Student Academic Committee. At the public forum at 8 p.m., Senator Mathias will speak on the topic "Congress and Foreign Crises." Ellsberg will speak on "Nixon's Vietnamization Policy."

Senator Mathias, a member of the Judiciary and Government Operations Committee, is currently sponsoring the repeal of the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution and is critical of our involvement in Vietnam. Ellsberg was for two years special assistant to Deputy Ambassador Porter in Vietnam in charge of the pacification program; his previous experience includes a special assistantship in the Defense Department under John McNaughton who was Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs.

The public forum will include as panelists Stanley Spector (Chairman of the Asian Studies Committee), Richard Jensen (Assistant Professor of History), and students John Richards and Robert Fabricant. After the formal presentations, the floor will be opened to questions from the panel and from the audience. All are invited to attend.

Mathias, Ellsberg Applauded, Hissed

Graham Chapel was filled Friday night as Senator Charles Mathias from Maryland and Daniel Ellsberg, research associate at MIT, spoke on the Cambodian crisis. Spectators alternately hissed and applauded as the two men, joined by panelists Stanley Spector, Richard Jensen, John Richards, and Robert Fabricant discussed national ills and campus turmoil.

In his speech, Ellsberg said while working in the Defense Department, for the Rand Corporation, and at MIT, "what I have never heard a government leader ask is 'Do I have a right to do this?'".

He said that one of the reasons the government has gotten into this "habit" was because for the last 20 years, Americans have thought that foreign policy decisions must be made at the top in secrecy because "the issues are too complicated for public understanding" or because "full information would endanger national security." Ellsberg said that "we have debauched a succession of Presidents with our silence and passivity."

Mathias was more optimistic about the ability of the government to check itself, although he stated that "either Congress is going to have to act, very soon, within a week, or we may lose the opportunity to act at all."

Saying that "there is a need for us to transcend a gunsight perspective", Mathias claimed that "every ideal is dissolved in combat. All too real are perversions of American democracy to which this war has contributed."

DANIEL ELLSBERG
ESPIONAGE - X

On August 18, 1971, Ralph Story, the Master of Ceremonies of a morning television program called "Ralph Story's AM Show," which is presented on television station KABC-TV, Channel 7, interviewed Daniel Ellsberg. Robert Penfield, the news reporter on the program, assisted Mr. Story during the interview.

There follows a verbatim report of that interview:

Story (S): Everyone knew who Daniel Ellsberg was. But we happened to call another switchboard yesterday in asking about Doctor Ellsberg and the switchboard operator said, "Doctor Ellsberg, who is he?" So finally we did find one person who had not already made up their mind about Daniel Ellsberg. But I can tell you that he is certainly a very controversial fellow. He was a hawkish consultant to the Pentagon who helped to formulate United States policy in Vietnam during the sixties; at the Rand Corporation he actually helped to write the very Pentagon papers which later he copied and got to the New York Times and other publications; and he began rethinking his whole view of the war sometime during that era and the United States' role in it. He returned to Rand, began rereading the very Pentagon papers that you've heard so much about, and eventually helped them to find their way to newspapers. Some people think Daniel Ellsberg is important enough to bring out this particular bumper sticker which we found yesterday, while others of course might very well say Daniel Ellsberg-traitor. Everyone seems to have a very tough and already formulated opinion about you, do you meet anyone like the switchboard operator we were talking about who just says, you know, who just treats you as an average human being?

Re: Daniel Ellsberg

Ellsberg (E): To most people that's what I am. I think most people that I meet probably...

S: Don't they already have formed their opinion about the Pentagon papers?

E: Yeah, if they have an opinion about the Pentagon papers, that's the way I'd like it, to have the focus on that rather than me. That's much more important.

S: I know, but I think that you have become the central character in the drama. I'm curious for instance, we, I found it fascinating that the staff reached you at the hotel. Do you have any guards, people threaten your life?

E: No they haven't at all. As a matter of fact, most nearly all the mail I have received has been very grateful, really, is the word.

S: How, and you don't, you move around without any special protection?

E: Certainly, I find that most places where I go one or two people come up and usually say thank you, and I'm sure that's a good protection.

Banfield (B): Doctor Ellsberg, Ralph's talked about what the present and the past, what about the future for you now, your trial is not set until, what is it, January 4, 1972, that's about five months from now. I'm quite sure that you won't be handling any secret papers for the government or anything, but what will you be doing? Do you have in mind writing a book possibly?

Re: Daniel Ellsberg

E: I will be putting out some papers that I wrote over the last couple of years. I'm working on that. But there's a lot of truth to be told still about this war, still to come out, and I'll be helping others who are working on that.

S: Your real purpose now is to have a public platform and to be able to tell what you'd like to tell, in other words...

E: The purpose is to encourage people who know about the Vietnam war to tell what they have to tell...

S: Other people...

E: And other people and people in the public to realize how much they know about it already and get them to face what they have to do about that.

B: In view of the fact that the Australians and the New Zealanders, they're pulling their forces out by Christmas, they say, so it's quite apparent that this whole thing is wrapping up. Do people really want to hear that much about it now? Is there a lesson to be learned for the country?

E: I'm very hopeful on this point because of the last several years, I had this growing feeling that, two years, that people had what I've called a need not to know about the Vietnam war and really were very unanxious to hear what I was saying publicly and what other people were saying at that time. But my hope was that that reflected the fact that they didn't know what they didn't know that they didn't have enough confidence really to insist on their, on knowing more or on following up their suspicions. That was really my purpose in bringing the Pentagon papers to the attention of the public. It was the hope that it would, that they would act differently, that they would, learning that much, would want to know more and I think that has been fully confirmed.

Re: Daniel Ellsberg

I think the public's reaction has been "We did need to know this information. We had a right to know it," and they are calling I think on their legislators now to act on that information.

S: Of course, we operate this entire program on the basis that people have a need to know and it's a learning experience sort of for both the audience and me every morning, but now they do know or at least they have the general idea of the Pentagon papers and what you were trying to say. So what more do you have to say or what more do you have to tell? The trial then becomes something, its sort of a rehash, isn't it?

E: I think a lot will come out in the trial and, which is why I'm looking forward to that very much. The courts are another institution of our society that have not been anxious to involve themselves or to take responsibility for our policies. They haven't on the whole been willing to listen to arguments on the legality of what we've been doing in Vietnam or the constitutionality when even though it is their function to do that. Again my hope was that their ability to avoid that reflected the fact they didn't have documents, evidentiary evidence, evidentiary documents like the Pentagon papers. It turns out now that in my own case many issues will evolve precisely around the contents of those documents so at least one judge and jury will be exposed very, in very great detail, to the contents of those documents and will hear legal arguments on them.

S: I say maybe because I'm not sure whether they would admit that to evidence, you are in effect putting the Vietnam war on trial instead of Daniel Ellsberg.

E: I certainly think the Vietnam war should be on trial and if my trial can contribute to that...

S: But it may not you see, I mean legally...

Re: Daniel Ellsberg

- E: It may not, that will depend on the judge, but when it comes to the question of motive, whether I had a criminal intent, which is present in any, an issue in any criminal case, and whether my motive was to harm the national interests, obviously I feel I know that that's the opposite of my intent, but I think that can only be argued when one looks closely at the contents of what it was I was revealing. You know, having read the Pentagon papers, knowing that they are 7,000 pages of evidence of high crimes, of aggressive war, and of crimes against the peace then, against humanity, of lying to Congress, of deceiving the public, and bypassing Congress, in effect usurping power. To me I have to live with a somewhat of a sense of an absurdity that one particular private citizen, me, is answering for revealing these crimes as where really no formal investigation is going on of the contents, but on the other hand I realize that I'm the one whose read them, not everybody yet shares that sense of responsibility.
- S: We discussed that, you remember Bob, at the production meeting. We wondered if perhaps you welcome this role of martyr. Somebody had to do it.
- E: I'm no martyr, what role of martyr?
- S: Well, you're on trial for what you've done, you said you're a representative of...
- E: I'm delighted to be on trial, as I say I think...
- S: That's masochistic, isn't it?
- E: No, I think after all as a citizen I'm delighted to have the opportunity to have these issues looked at formally, legally, closely and I think it was my duty to do it. I don't feel martyred in the slightest and when people say thank you to me I don't have any sense that they feel sorrow for me, I think if anything they feel like congratulating me for having had the opportunity to do what I did and that's the way I feel.

Re: Daniel Ellsberg

B: If anybody is going to be a martyr, I guess it would be your former co-worker, Mr. Russo, who is in jail now because he will not say anything about his association with you. Is that true?

S: Now that's a strange paradox. He's in jail for not talking about you, you're not in jail.

E: That's an aspect of our legal system that is, I think, deserves a lot closer attention, the Grand Jury system, which has, seems to be, a device for making someone against his will into a tool of the prosecution. After all, Tony Russo took responsibility and he was entitled to do that, along with me, for releasing these papers. He'd earned that claim, which a lot of people would like to be able to say, actually.

S: You mean there are a lot of people that have come up to you who wish they could have done...

E: Oh, no question about that. There's a lot of people in this society, many people who would feel it was a good act.

S: Russo is one...

E: Oh, yes, he said he was proud of it and I'm proud of it. There's a lot of people who are willing and would have been willing to share great risks. In fact, I tried to keep the cooperation that I needed down to a minimum because the risks were after all very large and I wanted not to expose anyone unnecessarily but when things had to be done that I couldn't do, I found it not at all hard to find people who were ready to take that risk.

Re: Daniel Ellsberg

- B: Of the people that you have talked to, Doctor Ellsberg, how many have actually read the complete papers. How many, didn't most people just read the headlines, and read one or two things and say ah, yes, that's just what I figured...
- S: ... and then already take an opinion on it.
- E: I think that's true for most of them. I still think that it's essential that the entire papers get out. Various people are working on that. I'm helping. And I think they will all get out. But you know, I'm, when you mentioned Russo, I'm on my way to jail this morning after this program to see him, having worked my way up a bureaucracy to find somebody who would take responsibility for allowing me to see him and...
- S: You had trouble getting to see him?
- E: Oh, yes, at the lower levels, people, it's the bureaucracy, you know, that works the jail. As a matter of fact, I think they think of themselves with the attitude of inmates as well. Bureaucrats, twenty years to serve, serve time, want good time, they don't want to break rules and they don't want to take the responsibility.
- B: What's he achieving by going to jail? If you don't care that you're going to be on trial, what can he possibly tell them that's going to be detrimental to you?
- E: He hasn't been offered the chance to be on trial, which I think he, too, would welcome. Instead, you see, the situation at the Grand Jury is, that they offer him not the choice of being on trial and speaking in legal jeopardy of his beliefs, but rather they offered him immunity from prosecution, thus giving him the choice of going to jail for refusing to be a tool of the, or to be a tool of the prosecution in sending me, he's a friend of mine, close friend, to jail, not him, and to, for doing something which he had participated in and had felt proud for doing so. That was the choice that he felt gave him only the chance to go to jail.

S: Couldn't he take the Fifth Amendment?

E: No, he was offered immunity from prosecution, transactional immunity, so that although...

S: Doesn't the Fifth Amendment apply in that Grand Jury situation? Most people would think so...

E: This is one of the, if you don't know that, the answer to that, and I'm not surprised I only recently have learned this sort of thing...

S: I told you this is a learning experience here.

E: Good, I hope then some of our viewers may be willing to find out more about the Grand Jury process and the way this works. He couldn't take the Fifth Amendment because although the answers he might give might have incriminated him in the eyes of the prosecutor, with immunity, then, he no longer has that protection allegedly from the Bill of Rights to refrain from talking and to refrain from putting me in jail. Incidentally, I heard from him yesterday. Did you see him on television by any chance when he went...the TV cameras followed him into the Federal Building and down the hall and until the door closed on him and I learned yesterday that within twelve hours after the doors had closed on him, the eyes of the public, he was in chains on his stomach in an isolation cell with his hands manacled behind his back.

Re: Daniel Ellsberg

S: He, whoops, wait a minute, in chains on his stomach in an isolation cell?

E: Yes.

S: In Los Angeles?

E: In Los Angeles.

S: Why?

E: The charge on the log, which I read when I went to see it yesterday, was not cooperating in the booking process. That was the same charge of the other members of that cell, four or five of them, in a very, sort of a steel box, very heavy steel door on it. The toilet in it, no toilet paper, not cleaned for some time.

S: But you don't know what Russo did after those doors closed. He may indeed have...

E: Oh, yes, I heard from the, I talked to the officials and talked to Russo, who had called me on the phone. It's actually a small example of what the Pentagon papers are all about. It's an example of what happens to human beings when they are subject to officials who are worried about maintaining their jobs for twenty years, who have power to use violence and who are totally invisible from the public eye. That's what happens when the doors close on television cameras.

B: Doctor Ellsberg, at what point in time did you suddenly change? You were working within the system, working for these very same officials. At what point did you get fed up, so to speak, and said I've had enough and I've got to speak out?

Re: Daniel Ellsberg

E: Well, the same experience that Tony had really had a great learning effect on me and that was going around the roads of Vietnam for over two years and seeing what it was that we were really doing as opposed to official reports. When I saw that item on the log, "Inmate Russo," an inmate is a person who is supposed to be afraid of breaking the rules. When Inmate Russo not cooperating with the booking process. When I knew what had lay behind that entry and what followed from it, it looked to me like cables that I had read for seventy hours a week in the Defense Department. It was as informative. Let me tell you what lay behind it, if any. When he got in at six o'clock that night when the television cameras were off, he wasn't booked because the computer had broken down, so as they told me many hundreds of people just brought in then were not put through a booking process but were instead in a cage, a simple cage with a concrete floor. That would look familiar to Tony and to me when I saw it because it looked like a refugee camp in Vietnam and we had visited a lot of those. In fact, Tony's job was interrogating Vietcong prisoners. He had been in every jail in Vietnam so this was all very familiar to him. He slept that night, the night before last, on this concrete floor, and they were processing him then at six in the morning and he was asking questions of the girl who was now typing, the computer thing having been fixed, you're not supposed to ask questions. So the guard came up and said very nastily, "Do you have a problem?" He said, "No, I don't have a problem, do you have a problem?" You don't ask questions of the officials and the guard answered in a way that Tony described as, you know, he said "you won't believe this." The guard said with great insight, he said "Yeh, I've got problems and you know what, I'm going to take them out on you." And he took him to the isolation cell. Well, for two hours in that cell with the other prisoners who were again complaining for not having booked and who had not cooperated, Tony was talked through the door trying to get the attention of the guard seated at the desk in front of the cell, I saw all the relations here. Got no attention, so he began banging on the door for attention. Then he got attention, it was audible. Five men came in the cell, chained his legs, chained his hands, manacled his hands behind him, and left him on his stomach on the floor. The other prisoners helped him get the chains off his legs and he began to hurl his shoulder against the door again because it is very hard to make an inmate out of Tony. This time again he was audible and he was taken to the captain, who was a very decent fellow, I talked to him. And I looked at the log, I said you know, I notice they didn't mention the chaining in the log. The log said at 10:30 he was removed from the cell to continue his processing. And he said, "Oh, well, they don't mention that, that's normal." And that was right, the treatment he had gotten obviously he hadn't expected any special treatment, any more than I would, but he hadn't gotten any, what he had gotten was the normal treatment. The moral, and oh, several people mentioned, he said, well, the captain said, "We didn't know who he was." Who he was? Who was he? He was a prisoner like you and me if we were in here. Who was he? But so he got normal treatment.

S: You mean that now that the captain and his superiors know who Russo is...

E: Now he is in a cell by himself.

S: Now he's in, now he is getting good treatment?

E: Oh, very good, he is in a cell, I asked the captain what kind of treatment he was getting, well, he was over in another cell block for custody and the captain mentioned, "I don't really know because I've never been over there." He'd been in the jail for over three years. I recognize that attitude very well, you know, as I say that this man was a very decent fellow and he was, so we called up to see what he was getting, they wouldn't let me see him. He was in a cell by himself, which everyone was surprised to hear, and with a bed.

S: Is this VIP treatment?

E: Oh, definitely, they said he has a wash basin and a toilet and I said with toilet paper and he said yes, and shelf. I said; gee Al, that's better than I lived for six months in a Navy ship on the Mediterranean and he said, "Oh, yes, its very good"...

B: You make a good point.

S: I'm curious as to whether you yourself feel that he is suffering for what you did.

E: First of all, he makes decisions for himself, he is not suffering at all, I don't think, and as I told the captain who mentioned the treatment, I said Tony Russo could live in chains in this cell for ten years and so could I if we had to, so he's not suffering. In fact, I think he feels freer right now than the captain. You know, the captain mentioned to me, I said that Tony had mentioned the captain had treated him honestly, straightforward. He said, the captain said, "Well, after all, I told him I'm a prisoner of war." I said, "Really, what did you mean by that?" He said, "I'm in prison, aren't I?" And then later on he said, he said "I'm here as much for punishment as he is." "How do you mean?" and he said, "Well, they gave me a choice. I could give up twenty years of work and throw it down the drain or I could come here." I said, "Well, you go home at night." He said, "I'm in jail, aren't I?"

B: You see that captain and some of the jail officials as officials of the, uh, high officials in the government, is that true? Toward all citizens, is that right?

Re: Daniel Ellsberg

S: You seem, you have a very definite picture of a bureaucrat.

E: Yeh, I think so, I see him as a sample of people I worked with, many of them I respected, trusted, and still do admire as human beings. I don't admire the way they see themselves as bureaucrats and as inmates. They see themselves as time servers and they see themselves as people who have no choice but to let violence be done on fellow human beings when to do otherwise would hurt their careers, when the public can't see and when the computer breaks down.

S: Could we end with your personal reactions of that little bumper sticker that we found yesterday, the one that says, "God Bless Ellsberg"?

E: I can use the sympathy. No, I don't need sympathy. I'm delighted to see that people, I really think that when people come up and say thank you to me, they are saying maybe this jail we're all in is not escape proof. I'm delighted if that's the way they feel.

S: I think we'll end on that. Its been, we've taken an especially long time this morning to talk with Doctor Ellsberg because certainly he is one of the most newsworthy people that we could have an opportunity to talk to on the program, a headline maker in every sense of the word. I also would like to refer back to that young lady on the switchboard that we talked about at the beginning, the one that didn't know who Doctor Ellsberg was and possibly the only person in Los Angeles with that notoriety today, but I have the feeling that when this is done and maybe some years from now there will be a even happier time when maybe everybody will say, "Who is Daniel Ellsberg" and I'm not sure that we don't owe this gentleman that kind of privacy.

DANIEL ELLSBERG
ESPIONAGE - X

The following is a verbatim transcript of a television news conference with Daniel Ellsberg which was presented on KABC television, channel seven, Los Angeles, California, at 4:30 p.m., August 18, 1971. The master of ceremonies for the program was Al Wiman of the KABC news staff:

Newsman: "...Rand Corporation had been mistreated in the Los Angeles County Jail. Russo is being held for contempt for his refusal to testify against Ellsberg before a Federal Grand Jury. Al Wiman today talked with Ellsberg and he has a special report on the story. Al.

Wiman
(W):

Joe, Doctor Ellsberg is here in Los Angeles answering a Federal indictment charging him with violating Federal laws in the release of the Pentagon Papers. Dr. Ellsberg told me that he learned of the incident yesterday when he visited Russo in the County Jail.

Ellsberg
(E):

Well, I want to see him because he's my friend, but I was also uh, very concerned to find out why he had been chained and thrown on the floor of his cell with his hands manacled behind his back and his legs chained, within twelve hours after the television cameras had lost sight of him.

65-11004-104

DANIEL ELLSBERG

W: Well what do you mean, he was uh manacled and chained?

E: Well, as I got the story just before I went to the jail, from Tony who had finally been unchained and become visible to the authorities, uh as they put it, they found out who he was and so they stopped giving him normal treatment. Um, when he went in about six o'clock and, I don't know if it was on your channel, but some of the channels showed the sight of the door closing on him inside the Federal building as he went down the hall. Well, when doors close on you in our society and some bureaucracies where the officials can uh, do pretty much what they want to uh keep their jobs, some uh very inhumane things can begin to happen to people. In this case the computer had broken down in the jail, a classic uh beginning for a story like this, and as a result, several hundred prisoners who had been brought in and not yet been booked were held in a holding cage, which is a zoo-like cage, uh meant to hold people I guess for minutes or hours, and uh not meant for sleeping. Since the computer had broken down naturally the system had no way to deal with these human beings so they slept on the concrete floor that night. Without a shower and without food by the way. The booking did start again at six the next morning, uh around uh that time because uh, I guess the computer had been repaired. So, Tony found himself answering questions um, of a girl typing data into the computer. And he asked her some questions; a guard saw this uh unusual event taking place, uh an inmate, who is a person who is supposed to be afraid to ask questions, uh so he came over and said to uh Tony, 'Do you have a problem?', quite nastily apparently. And as Tony told me, he said to him, 'No, I don't have a problem. Do you have a problem?' Well, you don't ask questions of the guards uh, least of all. And the guard answered uh, according to Tony with great human insight. He said, 'Ya, I've got a lot of problems, and you know what? I'm gonna take them out on you.' They threw him in this box instead of the cage, which had a uh four or five other people in it and uh a toilet with no toilet paper, the other prisoners were, had been complaining about that for some time. So, for a couple of hours Tony uh tried quietly to talk through this voice tube in the door, to the Lieutenant sitting immediately in front of him at the, at a desk. He got no response at all. He asked to speak to his lawyer, to call his lawyer. He asked to see the captain and there was simply no response, cause. So, uh he began banging on the door as the uh captain, to whom I spoke later said uh, 'It's very hard for the lieutenant to hear in those situations with the cages all around.' I said, 'Perhaps that's why uh Tony was banging.' He said, 'Yes, that could be.' So after he banged for a while on the door he did get some attention, they, he became audible to the officials and uh, they opened the door and uh four or five guards came in, threw him down on the floor, chained his legs and manacled his hands behind his back, and left him on his stomach in the cell and then left, having restored uh order. So uh, the other prisoners uh helped him get the chains off his legs, and uh it's, it's very hard to make Tony Russo invisible or inaudible. He's not an inmate by nature. He never will be. So he began throwing his shoulder, he's quite a big guy, throwing his shoulder against the cell door again. This time they let him out and he did see the captain, who was a very decent fellow, didn't know why Tony was there or uh, as he put it to me uh later, the captain of course, 'We didn't know who he was, we hadn't known, the others hadn't known who he was.'

W: Suggesting they wouldn't have treated him that way if they would known who he was?

E: I, I said 'What do you mean, who he is? Uh, who was he? He's a prisoner. Like you or me if we were in here. He's a prisoner.' But now they know who he is and uh so he's not getting the normal treatment.

DANIEL ELLSBERG

- W: This afternoon I went to the County Jail with Dr. Ellsberg in an attempt to see Russo to try to get an interview with him to get his version of what happened. Russo's attorney, Michael Balaban, had given me permission to conduct an interview. Dr. Ellsberg was allowed to visit him, but I was told I would have to get permission from the U.S. Marshal's Office. When I attempted to interview Harold Kramer, the Chief of the County Sheriff's Jail Division, to get the Sheriff's Department's side of this story, I ran into a stone wall.
- Kramer
(K): The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department through contract with the Federal government is unable to uh discuss in any way any Federal uh prisoners.
- W: You're forbidden from saying anything about uh this case at all.
- K: Any publicity on any Federal prisoner, yes.
- W: Just minutes before I arrived in his office, Chief Kramer had received a call from U. S. Marshal Gaylord Campbell telling him not to make any comment on prisoner Russo. The County Jail is under contract to the U. S. Marshal's Office to keep Federal prisoners for the government. Late this afternoon U. S. Marshal Gaylord Campbell told Eyewitness News we will not be allowed to interview Anthony Russo because U. S. Department of Prisons regulations forbid interviews with prisoners when, quoting the marshal, 'In the opinion of the Department such interviews would be harmful to society or to the interests of the Department of Prisons.' All I wanted was Russo's side of the story. Joe.
- Joe (LNU)
(J): Well, the way Dr. Ellsberg tells it, it's a fascinating story, and I'm sure he probably would like to get some corroboration of it, Al.

DANIEL ELLSBERG

- W: We uh did everything we could uh to try to get uh in there, but uh even uh, calling the U. S. Attorney's Office, and the U. S. Attorney's Office said that they didn't have any uh interest in the case and uh, it was strictly up to the U. S. Marshal's Office, and the U. S. Marshal's Office uh has uh slammed the door and uh apparently doesn't want uh anybody to, from the news media to talk with him.
- J: I'm gonna ask you something which may elicit a little bit of an opinion.. But, if Anthony Russo did not have a friend as eloquent as Daniel Ellsberg and uh, Daniel Ellsberg did not have the attention of the media as he does because of who he is and the case he's involved in, would we have ever known about what happened to Anthony Russo?
- W: I uh doubt if I would be sitting here doing a report about it.
- J: And twice in that interview with Dr. Ellsberg the, the term normal treatment was used. You've been reporting this city for a long time. Is it normal to treat prisoners this way?
- W: If we uh, would have had an opportunity to interview someone at the jail today about this situation, and to get the Sheriff's Department's side of the story, perhaps we could have answered that uh question more fairly.
- J: Knowing uh, knowing you I, I assume you're going to follow this up and see what we can find out.
- W: Uh, I think we'll be back at the jail tomorrow.
- J: O.K. Thank you, Al.

Memorandum highlights for the Director a critical breakthrough which could pinpoint responsibility for disclosure of highly classified Pentagon papers to various newspapers throughout the U.S. This is most significant development to date, and we are advising Mr. Egil Krogh, Deputy Assistant to the President for Domestic Affairs, at the White House by teletype attached with a copy for the Attorney General.

Background

Our investigation which commenced 6/15/71 has developed information that at least eight newspapers extending from New York to California have unlawfully possessed portions of the so-called Pentagon papers. Each of these newspapers has printed excerpts during June or July, and the National Security Agency is currently conducting a study to identify the exact origin for each article.

Our investigation has identified Daniel Ellsberg as the principal suspect and source for "The New York Times" article. He has been indicted by Federal Grand Jury, Los Angeles, and our continued investigation has been directed toward developing evidence to assure successful prosecution of him. In addition, commencing 8/4/71, we have been making preliminary inquiries at the Attorney General's request to determine responsibility for the leaks to the additional newspapers.

By teletype 8/4/71 pertinent field offices were instructed to initiate immediate investigation regarding the publication of the Pentagon papers in newspapers in their territories.

Memorandum to Mr. C. D. Brennan

[REDACTED] "St. Louis Post Dispatch (SLPD). [REDACTED] that, after the first publication of the Pentagon papers in "The New York Times," SLPD had wanted to acquire them. SLPD was experiencing difficulties with "The New York Times" and "The Washington Post" and [REDACTED] realized he could not get help from those two papers. The head of the SLPD bureau in Washington, Richard Dudman, had received a telephone call believed to have been from Boston or Cambridge, Massachusetts, (residence of Daniel Ellsberg) with the caller telling Dudman that, if the SLPD wanted the Pentagon papers, Dudman should come to Cambridge, call a given telephone number, and arrangements would be made to turn the papers over to him. Dudman had relayed this information to his editor, Bertelson. Dudman sent another SLPD reporter from Washington to Boston where the telephone number was called with the reporter being instructed to go to a certain address [REDACTED] where he was personally handed the papers which were later published by the SLPD. The SLPD reporter actually acquiring the papers in Boston was identified [REDACTED] Ottenad (Thomas W. Ottenad appears in the current issue of the "Congressional Directory" as an accredited reporter of the SLPD in Washington).

St. Louis, Boston and Washington Field Office are vigorously pressing inquiries, specifically including checks of hotels in the Boston area, as well as toll calls from the SLPD bureau in Washington and residences of its two reporters in Washington, looking toward identification of the SLPD source in acquiring the Pentagon papers.

Mr. Egil Krogh advised our liaison representative 8/12/71 that he was interested in obtaining significant developments as they occurred in our investigation of Ellsberg.

ACTION:

1. Attached for approval is teletype to Mr. Egil Krogh, Deputy Assistant to the President for Domestic Affairs, at the White House setting forth the above development which will also be furnished to the Attorney General by messenger.
2. Our investigation is being pressed vigorously and you will be kept apprised of developments.

UNAUTHORIZED DISCLOSURE OF CLASSIFIED INFORMATION:
"THE NEW YORK TIMES" SERIES REGARDING UNITED STATES - VIETNAM RELATIONS 1945 - 1967

Reference is made to your letter of August 12, 1971, captioned as above, requesting additional investigation regarding the acquisition of the "McNamara Study" and related documents by the Rand Corporation. Reference is also made to my letter dated August 16, 1971, under the same caption.

This Bureau is in receipt of several recent reports originating in the Department of Defense reflecting inquiries on behalf of the Defense Contract Administration Services and by the Office of the General Counsel into the preparation and disposition of the "McNamara Study" and related papers within the Government and to private contractors. These reports have been made available to the Internal Security Division of the Department by the Department of Defense. A review of these reports discloses that questions raised in paragraphs 1, 2, and 11 of your letter have been, or are, subjects of inquiry by the present Department of Defense study and appear to be within the scope of such inquiry. In view of the above, it is believed that this Bureau should not pursue these matters during investigation of Daniel Ellsberg.

Questions raised by paragraphs 3 through 9 relate to the present Ellsberg investigation by this Bureau, and the requested inquiries set forth in these paragraphs will be made and results furnished to you.

Regarding paragraphs 6 and 7 of your letter referred to above, it is noted that Miss Jan L. Butler, Top Secret Control Officer, Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, California, advised this Bureau on August 6, 1971, that on August 5, 1971, she was interviewed by Paul Vincent of the Department of Justice relative to the operation of the Top Secret Control Office at Rand Corporation. It would appear that results of Mr. Vincent's interview with Butler would be of assistance in our present inquiry, and if available, it is requested that report of the interview be furnished this Bureau.

Results of name checks of individuals mentioned in paragraph 10 of your letter will be furnished when completed. However, it is noted that the names of these individuals have not arisen in the Ellsberg investigation to date. You are requested to advise if the Department has received any information concerning these individuals pertinent to our continuing investigation of Daniel Ellsberg.

NOTE:

Referenced Departmental letter consisted of five pages containing a large number of detailed and complicated questions relating to captioned investigation. The letter requested the Bureau conduct a number of additional interviews and investigation. A detailed and extensive review of the subject matter raised by the Department in this instance disclosed that the Department of Defense is presently conducting an extensive inquiry into the background of the preparation of the "McNamara Study" and role played by persons who conducted the original study and who later became affiliated with private contractors to the Government. Copies of the complete study were made available to these individuals subsequent to their departure from Government service, and the Department of Defense is presently ascertaining the overall policy which allowed this practice. Our investigation has been directed to all facets bearing directly on the Ellsberg involvement in the disclosure to newspapers of these papers. Where Department inquiries in referenced letter have a direct bearing on the Ellsberg matter, the requested investigation will be set forth for handling by the field. Additionally, we will furnish to the Department results of name checks of [REDACTED] and his personal references. [REDACTED] was recommended for employment with Rand Corporation by Dr. Leslie Gelb, who headed up the "McNamara Study" at Department of Defense.

Title: DANIEL ELLSBERG

Character: ESPIONAGE - X

Synopsis: ROGER D. FISHER, executive editor, "Advocates" television program, in 10/69, advised that DANIEL ELLSBERG was to have appeared on an "Advocates" show in 10/69 as a witness for a bill of Senator GOODELL of New York calling for a deadline date for withdrawal of all U. S. forces from Vietnam but was talked out of it by the president of Rand Corp. ELLSBERG did serve as a consultant and was present in the studio the day in 10/69 the show was televised. ELLSBERG depicted in photographs of individuals participating in Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice sponsored demonstration outside John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, 5/6/71. At 7/15/71 removal hearing, Boston, ELLSBERG's attorneys filed motion that removal of ELLSBERG to California in answer to indictment returned in the Central District of California be postponed or delayed until U. S. Government disclosed whether evidence used in obtaining the indictment was obtained by use of electronic surveillance or eavesdropping. AUSA, Boston, declined to make available such information at the hearing; and U. S. Magistrate allowed ELLSBERG's attorneys until 7/23/71 to file motions. On 8/4/71, U. S. Magistrate PETER W. PRINCE recommended ELLSBERG be removed to Central District of California. At hearing, 8/5/71, Boston, before Judge W. ARTHUR GARRITY, JR., GARRITY upheld PRINCI's recommendation and ordered that ELLSBERG appear in Los Angeles for arraignment on Monday, 8/16/71, and continued $50,000 bail. Records, Treadway Motor House, Cambridge, show individual registered at Motor House under name "SAMUEL JOHNSON, Control Data Corporation, 25 Broadway, New York, New York," during period, 3/20-23/71, and was assigned Room 215. Phone calls made from Room 215 during above period to telephones listed to DANIEL ELLSBERG; his brother-in-law, SPENCER MARX; and Hotel Continental, Cambridge, Mass. Records show "JOHNSON" requested use of bed board. JOHN JOINER, clerk on duty at time of above registration at the Motor House, exhibited group of photographs including CORNELIUS (NEIL) MAHONEY SHEEHAN of "The New York Times" and selected a photograph of SHEEHAN as a look alike to "JOHNSON." Other employees of Treadway Motor House could provide no significant information. Results of investigation concerning telephone calls from above Room 215 set forth. Records of the Treadway Motor House also show above-mentioned "JOHNSON" was registered at the Motor House during the period 3/16-18/71, and on 4/7/71. Cab driver [REDACTED] recalls taking male fare from Treadway Motor House to Hotel Continental, Cambridge, via Western Union office, Cambridge, where fare obtained sum of money; and from review of his trip sheet for 3/23/71, [REDACTED] concluded it could have been on that date. Western Union records show that, when NEIL SHEEHAN of "The New York Times" appeared at Western Union office, Boston, early morning of 3/23/71 to obtain $600, that amount was not available at that hour and he was furnished two drafts, one for $500 and one for $100. Records further show $500 Western Union Draft No. 295-42-774 was cashed at Cambridge Western Union office 3/23/71 and that the number on this draft is identical to one furnished NEIL SHEEHAN in that amount. Results of FBI Laboratory and Identification Division examinations set forth.

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] for International Studies (CIS), Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts, furnished the following information on July 13, 1971:

[REDACTED] is responsible for all administrative matters pertaining to CIS and has nothing to do whatsoever with research as such that is presently in progress at CIS.

[REDACTED] knew DANIEL ELLSBERG slightly in spite of the fact that ELLSBERG's [REDACTED] ELLSBERG was responsible only to Dr. EVERETT HAGEN, Professor of Political Science and Professor of Economics and Director of the CIS.

[REDACTED] noted that ELLSBERG's office hours were irregular since he saw ELLSBERG about once a week for a few hours at a time [REDACTED] has not seen ELLSBERG at all since ELLSBERG received all the publicity in the newspapers regarding the Pentagon papers.

According to [REDACTED] ELLSBERG's contract, which is of one-year duration, was extended for another year.

[REDACTED] can furnish no information regarding ELLSBERG's contacts, particularly in respect to SUSAN and NEIL SHERMAN, SUSAN FOWLING or any members of the MARK family.

[REDACTED] Center For International Studies, (CIS), Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts, furnished the following information on July 13, 1971:

After [REDACTED] DANIEL ELLSBERG, was assigned to another position at CIS due to a cut-down of personnel, [REDACTED] in many instances took telephone calls for ELLSBERG. She could not recall the names of people asking for ELLSBERG and in most instances the callers did not identify themselves and [REDACTED] would furnish the callers ELLSBERG's answering service telephone number.

[REDACTED] did not know where ELLSBERG was from day to day. He would show up on an irregular basis, sometimes once a week and would stay in the office three or four hours and leave.

[REDACTED] is unable to identify ELLSBERG's callers, particularly if any calls were made from the "New York Times", NEIL or SUSAN SHEEHAN, SUSAN DOWLING or any members of the MARK family.

[REDACTED], Center for International Studies (CIS),
Hermann Building, Massachusetts Institute for Technology,
Cambridge, Massachusetts, furnished the following information on July 13, 1971:

[REDACTED] DANIEL ELLSBERG
from [REDACTED]. Her changing positions was due to a cut-down of personnel in her department.

[REDACTED] ELLSBERG
were to take phone calls, read the mail, and take dictation.
During the period from October, 1970 to April, 1971, ELLS-BERG reported to the office at irregular intervals for about two or three hours each time.

[REDACTED] answered the phone calls for ELLSBERG, she would in most instances make a note of it; however, she is unable to remember the names of the callers and could not remember if any of the calls for ELLSBERG were from the "New York Times", NEIL or SUSAN SHEEHAN, SUSAN DOWLING or any member of the MARK family.

[REDACTED] recalled that during the past winter one of the local newspapers in the Boston area wrote an article on ELLSBERG regarding his views on Vietnam. ALLEN was unable to identify the newspaper.

[REDACTED] considers ELLSBERG to be a normal and well balanced person and described him as extremely intelligent, very aware, and very dedicated in his field of endeavor.

In response to her specific question, she was informed that the interviewing agents wished to question [redacted] concerning his possible knowledge of circumstances surrounding the release of the Pentagon Papers. She expressed doubt that [redacted] would discuss this matter with the agents for two reasons, (1) his admiration for DANIEL ELLSBERG and ELLSBERG's admitted role in the release of the Pentagon Papers, and (2) she knows that in the past he has "refused to give evidence" to the Federal Bureau of [redacted] Harvard Law School, and [redacted] Cambridge, Massachusetts, commented as follows:

The first "Advocates" show was put on in early October, 1969, about the fifth of that month. He was then running the "Advocates" television program as executive editor when it was decided to have a program as to whether or not Congress should adopt a bill introduced by then Senator CHARLES GOODELL of New York to set a deadline date for the withdrawal of all United States forces from Vietnam. At about that time, ten consultants from Rand Corporation had written a letter to "The New York Times" newspaper stating that all people at Rand Corporation were not in favor of the Vietnam War. DANIEL ELLSBERG was one of the ten who signed this letter; and as a result, he was apparently contacted by HOWARD MILLER of the "Advocates" to appear on the show as a witness for the Goodell Bill. MILLER was one of the attorneys on the show and also is a professor at the University of California Law School.

It was intended that there would be two Rand people on the show, one for the Goodell Bill and one against it. ELLSBERG, however, did not appear on the show because of a decision made by HARRY ROWAN, president of Rand. In view of the letter written by the Rand consultants, ROWAN thought their people ought to stay out of public media for a bit. This was a request made by ROWAN who asked the employees to comply but did not demand it.

ROWAN talked ELLSBERG out of appearing as a witness on the "Advocates" and so he [redacted] went to Santa Monica where he had lunch at the Rand Corporation with ROWAN to try to talk him out of his stand. When the show concerning the Goodell Bill was put on some time in October, 1969, at KCBT in Los Angeles, it was "live" and on a coast-to-coast network. While ELLSBERG did not appear on the show, which was about the third "Advocates" staged, he did serve as a consultant and was present in the studio the day when that particular show was televised at 7 p.m. Others present included HOWARD MILLER and MAX GREENBERG, the "Advocates" attorney opposing the bill.

He could not say as to whether or not ELLSBERG had brought anyone with him to the studio that day, and the only child he saw in the studio was a Vietnamese.

On May 6, 1971, the demonstration sponsored by the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ) at the John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, Massachusetts was photographed [REDACTED]

Photographs were taken at intervals throughout the day from 6:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Approximately 400 photographs were taken of activities which occurred at that demonstration.

Included in these photographs are a number of photographs depicting the arrest of HOWARD ZINN by the Boston Police Department. This arrest was photographed because the Agent recognized ZINN as a leader in the formation of this demonstration.

A review of several hundred photographs taken during the course of a May 6, 1971, demonstration sponsored by the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice at the John F. Also depicted in close proximity to ELLSBERG in seven of the photographs in the sequence is HOWARD ZINN. It would appear the sequence of photographs was taken just prior to the arrest on that date of ZINN as [REDACTED] can also be observed in photographs 3 through 7 of the sequence pointing at ZINN and uniformed officers of the Boston Police Department moving in ZINN's direction. ZINN and [REDACTED] are not depicted in photographs 8 and 9 of the sequence, having moved out of the range of the camera; and ELLSBERG in these latter two photographs can be observed being restrained by a uniformed member of the Boston Police Department.

 The following investigation was conducted on July 21, 1971, by

A press release dated March 1, 1971, issued by the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice described this organization as having its headquarters in Washington, D. C., and consisting of over one hundred organizations which are using massive nonviolent civil disobedience to combat racism, poverty, repression, and war.

On November 6, 1953, [redacted] in an interview with Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), advised he was not a CP member, that he was in his opinion a "liberal," and that perhaps some people would consider him to be a "leftist." [redacted] stated he had participated in activities of various organizations which might be considered communist fronts but that his participation was motivated by his belief that in this country people have the right to believe, think, and act according to their own ideals. However, the individual rights [REDACTED] should not be extended to violate the rights of others. [REDACTED] further stated that he did not believe in the doctrine of force and violence; that individuals and organizations do not have the right to advocate or teach the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force and violence; and that, if he had knowledge of persons who advocated this principle, he would advise the FBI.

Over the past few years, [REDACTED] who is a professor at Boston University, Boston, has publicly spoken in opposition to the war in Vietnam at several rallies in that regard.

[REDACTED] concerning the affairs of RESIST which noted that suggestion had been made that RESIST arrange a round-table discussion with DANIEL ELLSBERG and various "movement" people to be videotaped and distributed nationally. When suggestions were made about publicly linking ELLSBERG with RESIST through speaking tours, many people reportedly expressed hesitation due to mistrust of ELLSBERG's political position. It was also commented that ELLSBERG would be wise to avoid alignment with left groups to avoid diminution of his ability to speak to a new constituency.

RESIST is self-described as a nationwide unit of adults themselves beyond the reach of the draft who have declared their support of those who refuse to be taken into the Army to fight in Vietnam.

[REDACTED] described ELLSBERG as a loner who was politically naive and unsophisticated. [REDACTED] related, [REDACTED] that during a recent anti-war demonstration in Washington, D. C., ELLSBERG had been a member of a silent delegation received by Senator EDWARD W. BROOKE of Massachusetts and that ELLSBERG allegedly had made a strong protest statement without displaying any "political muscle," which BROOKE readily recognized when ELLSBERG acknowledged that he was speaking only for himself. [REDACTED] further described ELLSBERG as a political amateur and an unknown quantity toward whom caution must be exercised on any contact.

"The Phoenix," a local weekly newspaper in the general Boston area which carries articles appealing to the anti-establishment community, in its edition of July 20, 1971, published an article entitled "A Weatherman on Ellsberg: Guilt of Intellectuals" by ERIC MANN, a self-admitted Weatherman. In this article, MANN denounced DANIEL ELLSBERG as a long-time instrument of government policy and a member of the elite whose radicalism evolved from his cognizance that he was allied with the losers. MANN noted that most of ELLSBERG's academic associates had already become alienated from Vietnam policy and that ELLSBERG was merely joining belatedly in a trend of long standing. MANN predicted that ELLSBERG's publicly expressed wish to be tried as a war criminal will some day be granted. MANN warned, however, that ELLSBERG's defection from the forces of government does not warrant his welcome acceptance into the revolutionary movement. Finally, MANN minimized the impact of ELLSBERG's disclosures as a minor factor in the cumulative erosion of the legitimacy of the existing order that will eventually be transformed into revolutionary action.

ERIC MANN has recently been released from the Massachusetts Correctional Institution, Concord, Massachusetts, where he had been sentenced on a charge of assault and battery for his part in the attack on the Center for International Affairs, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts, the fall of 1969. At the time of the attack, MANN was publicly known as the leader of the Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) in the Boston area. // / /

SDS was founded during June, 1962, at Port Huron, Michigan, and in the 1960's functioned as the leading New Left campus-based student organization in the United States. From a stance of "participatory democracy," the SDS moved to a radical-revolutionary position. It maintained a national office at 1608 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois, until February, 1970. Internal factionalism during 1969 produced three main factions: Weatherman, Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM), and Worker Student Alliance (WSA). The Weatherman and RYM no longer consider themselves associated with the SDS. The WSA faction continues to use the name SDS.

Weatherman, formerly a faction of SDS, controlled the SDS National Office from June, 1969, until its closing in February, 1970. Weatherman then entered an underground status and adopted a tactic of "strategic sabotage," with police and military installations designated as primary targets.

WSA, a faction of SDS, was expelled from SDS in June, 1969, by the then dominant Weatherman faction, but continued to use the name SDS and opened an office in Cambridge, Massachusetts. WSA aligned ideologically with the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) and, in February, 1971, moved to Chicago, Illinois, where it opened the SDS National Office at 1225 South Wabash Street.

The PLP was founded in 1962 by individuals expelled from the CPUSA for following the Chinese communist line. Its objective is the establishment of a militant working-class movement based on Marxism-Leninism and MAO Tse-tung thought.

A characterization of the RYM is contained in the appendix.

D. Removal Hearing

On July 15, 1971, DANIEL ELLSBERG appeared before United States Magistrate PETER W. PRINCI, Boston, Massachusetts, at which time his attorney, LEONARD E. BOUDIN, introduced a motion that ELLSBERG's removal to California in answer to an indictment returned against him in the Central District of California be postponed or delayed until the United States Government discloses whether evidence used in obtaining the indictment was obtained by use of electronic surveillance or eavesdropping.

Assistant United States Attorney LAWRENCE P. COHEN, Boston, declined to make available such information at the removal hearing; and Magistrate PRINCI allowed BOUDIN until July 23, 1971, to file his motion in the above matter, following which PRINCI would make a decision.

On August 4, 1971, following review of motions filed by ELLSBERG's attorneys and responses of the government, Magistrate PRINCI recommended that ELLSBERG be removed to the Central District of California; and PRINCI's decision was scheduled to be reviewed by United States District Court Judge W. ARTHUR GARRITY, JR., at a hearing at 10 a.m. on August 5, 1971, at Boston. At the removal hearing before Judge GARRITY on August 5, 1971, Judge GARRITY upheld the recommendation of Magistrate PRINCI and issued a warrant of removal for ELLSBERG. Based on the decision of GARRITY at that time, ELLSBERG's bail is to be continued at $50,000 without surety and he is to appear on August 16, 1971, in the Central District of California at Los Angeles in answer to the indictment previously issued. It was agreed by ELLSBERG's lawyer BOUDIN that ELLSBERG would appear on his own on August 16, 1971, and would not be escorted by United States Marshals.

The bottom line showing room 215, Number of Persons 1, expected departure date March 22, and rate $18, was filled in by [REDACTED] along with the notation on the front of this card "bed board". [REDACTED] related that he was on duty on this date from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m., and that from his observation of the rear of this card, showing the amount charged, he concluded that he was on duty at the time this guest departed on March 23, 1971. He informed that the $10 charge on March 23, 1971, makes him conclude that this guest checked out between the hours of 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. on March 23, 1971. He explained that the $10 charge for this date is due to the late check out time.

[REDACTED] recalls that this guest requested a bed board and remembers that the guest at a later time during the day asked if the bed board had been installed. [REDACTED] believes that this duty was performed by the bell boy [REDACTED].

[REDACTED] related that the telephone charge sheets, copies of which were exhibited to him for the charges against room 215 on March 20, 1971, indicated all of these calls were placed by him on behalf of an individual in room 215 with the exception of the telephone charge bearing the number 0392 to telephone number 868-4974.

a member of the staff of Senator EDWARD M. KENNEDY of SHEEHAN since 1967. He has had telephonic contacts with Mr.

SHEEHAN a few times in 1971, some of which pertained to an invitation by Mr. SHEEHAN to be his guest at a White House originally, Mr. SHEEHAN telephonically extended this invitation number 45794 showing the registration at 7:53 p.m. on March 16,

New York, New York. This individual was assigned to Room 302 and he indicated the expected departure date as being March 18, is shown as NY 1Z8954. This guest checked out of the hotel at 10:41 a.m. on March 18, 1971, and the total bill was $38.06.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 7/21/71

[redacted] way Motor House, 110 Mount Auburn Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts, provided two guest registration cards numbers 45794 and 46449. He explained that the former numbered registration card shows the registration of SAMUEL JOHNSON at 7:53 p.m. on March 16, 1971. The front of the card which he believes was filled out by the guest shows that he is with Control Data Corporation, 25 Broadway, New York, New York, and that he was driving a Plymouth automobile bearing New York plate 1Z8954. This guest was charged $18 per day for rental of room 302 on March 16 and 17, 1971, and with the hotel tax of $1.03 per day, his total bill was $38.06. BOOLING advised that this amount was paid for in cash since a review by him of records for the period fails to show a charge card or check utilized in this transaction. [redacted] that the rear portion of the registration card shows that this individual checked out at 10:41 a.m. on March 18, 1971.

[redacted] also made available hotel registration card number 46449, which indicated that SAMUEL JOHNSON, Control Data Corporation, 25 Broadway, New York, New York, registered at 12:32 p.m. on April 7, 1971. Also that he was assigned to room 214, party of one, and that the rate was $18. The voucher side of the card indicated that he checked out prior to 1:00 p.m. on April 8, 1971. Inasmuch as 1:00 is the check out time and no additional charges were placed against his voucher indicates that he checked out prior to 1:00 p.m. on that date. The voucher section indicates that a total of seven long-distance phone calls and one local call was made.

[redacted] further advised that after a review of records for the pertinent period, a charge card or check was not utilized for payment for room 214 on the above-specified dates and it was his conclusion that this was a cash transaction. The total bill for the above period of occupancy in room 214 was $19.03 room charges and $12.93 telephone charges.

[REDACTED] informed that a thorough review by him of all reservations requests for the month of March and April failed to reveal the above guest having made prior reservations.

[REDACTED] In addition to the above registration cards [REDACTED] also made available three local telephone call charge slips for room 214 on April 7, 1971. These are listed to the following telephone numbers:

262-3700

262-7551

262-7551

He pointed out that although room 214 was charged with one local call on that date, it is possible that the clerk on duty failed to record an additional call on the voucher.

[REDACTED] made available a "Hotel Record of Telephone Traffic" for April 7, 1971, indicating that the following long distance telephone calls were charged to room 214 on that date.

[REDACTED]	6 minutes	$1.43
[REDACTED]	2 minutes	$1.16

[REDACTED] noted out that from a review of this hotel record, evidently the clerk failed to charge room 214 with 2 additional calls listed in the hotel's Record of Telephone Traffic, specifically, the 2 which contain no data as to number called, length of call and amount charged.

[REDACTED] further noted that the absence of the amount charged and the number of minutes it is also possible that these 2 numbers were requested by the guest but that the telephone call was not completed.

[REDACTED] requested and was provided with a receipt for the above 2 registration cards, the above 3 local telephone call slips numbers 1924, 1861 and 1979, and the hotel Record of Telephone Traffic sheets numbers 1544 and 1545.

[redacted]
[redacted]
Bedford, Massachusetts, employed as a taxi cab driver for Cambridge Taxi Company Incorporated, 2 Bay Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts, furnished the following information on July 16, 1971:

Upon review of his trip sheet for March 23, 1971, He noted entry number 18 reflecting a trip from Treadway Motor House, Cambridge, to Continental Hotel, Cambridge for which he collected a $2.90 fare.

[redacted] said that during the past year he had taken by cab very few fares from Treadway Motor House. He recalled taking a white male from Treadway Motor House between 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. about three or four months ago which could have been on March 23, 1971, as reflected on the trip sheet. His conclusion is based on the fact that a fare from Treadway Motor House to Continental Hotel normally is $1.80 wherein on March 23, 1971 it was $2.90, indicating that a detour had to be made to bring the fare up to $2.90.

On this particular trip [redacted] does not recall whether he went to Treadway because of a telephone request received by Cambridge Taxi Company or otherwise. The Cambridge Taxi Company does not have a record on any telephone requests from Treadway on March 23, 1971. Based on his prior trip O'DONNELL feels that a phone call was involved in spite of the company's records.

When the unidentified male entered [redacted] cab he was carrying either a brief case or some papers perhaps two or three inches thick. The male said "I have to go to the Western Union Office. Do you know where it is?" [redacted] said he did and took him to the Western Union Office located on Prospect Street and Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

The male entered the Western Union Office while [redacted] waited outside. While at the Western Union Office the male was attended to by a female clerk. When the male left the Western Union Office [redacted] observed him putting money into his pocket. The male may have sat in the front seat on the way to the Continental Hotel. [redacted] is sure, however, that the male sat in the back seat on route to the Western Union Office. On route to the Continental Hotel the male and [redacted] spoke about the risk of carrying a large sum of money and [redacted] recalled during this conversation that the male may have mentioned getting from Western Union approximately $300 to $500. [redacted] can not explain how [redacted] arrived at these figures, however, is sure that the male received more than $50 from Western Union. The male indicated that he worked for some unidentified company and was waiting for a new order at Western Union and that was the reason he requested [redacted] to take him there. [redacted] volunteered without any prompting that it was his impression that the male was "some kind of writer" since he spoke in a very polished manner and based on [redacted] experience in dealing with a large number of people due to his occupation.

[redacted] took the male to the Continental Hotel immediately upon leaving the Western Union Office. Upon arrival at the Hotel the male paid [redacted] while still in the cab [redacted] does not recall how much money he received from the male in payment for the $2.90 fare. [redacted] described the male as follows:

Race:	White
Age:	In his 40s
Height:	5' 8" to 5' 9"
Weight:	160 - 165
Hair:	?

[redacted] former cab driver for the Cambridge Taxi Company during March, 1971, was shown a waybill for March 23, 1971, reflecting an entry at 7:10 a.m. having a fare from 10 Hilliard Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts, to Eastern Airlines. He was also shown a copy of a telephone request sheet indicating that the Cambridge Taxi Cab Company had received a request for a cab at approximately 7 a.m. on that date.

He advised that to the best of his knowledge and memory the male individual was waiting for him on the side walk in front of 10 Hilliard Street as he approached. He recalls having taken him to Eastern Airlines Terminal at Logan International Airport and believes that the male fare was going to Washington, D.C. to attend some type of educational committee conference. He described the male individual as white; age, 30-33; brown hair. He stated that he was carrying an old suitcase and some type of attache case.

[redacted] was shown a group of male photographs including those of NEIL SHEEHAN and DANIEL ELLSBERG, however, he was unable to identify his fare as either one of these two gentlemen.

REVOLUTIONARY YOUTH MOVEMENT

[redacted] the Revolutionary Youth Movement II (RYMII) faction of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) held a national conference at Atlanta, Georgia, from November 26 to 30, 1969. At this conference it was decided to form a new organization to be known as Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM), characterized as a mass anti-imperialist youth organization, said organization being proposed as separate and distinct in form and content from SDS. The "Principles of Unity" adopted by the conference included a struggle against white supremacy and male supremacy; fights against imperialism, anticommunism, fascism and oppression of youth; and support of the right of self-determination of all "oppressed nations,; also support of the right of all "oppressed and exploited" peoples "to armed self-defense." It was agreed that RYM would not be a Marxist-Leninist organization; however, source said this was decided in order to indicate an organization broad enough in form to be acceptable to everyone. A temporary National Steering Committee (NSC) made up of eight females and two males was elected to govern RYM until national officers could be elected during the Spring of 1970.

RYM publications have listed the RYM National Office (NO) at Post Office Box 5421 and Post Office Box 77012 C, both Atlanta, Georgia, and [redacted] the NO has no office space but would probably be considered as located at Apartment 27, 1067 Alta Avenue, Northeast, Atlanta.

[redacted] women dominated the founding conference and have continued to dominate NSC meetings to the point that "women's liberation" has apparently become the RYM's principal issue - also that RYM's poor financial condition has resulted in its failure to publish a paper. During early 1970, RYM has decided to cater to the working class rather than youth, since the potential for social revolution lies in workers.

[redacted] it was decided at the March, 1970, NSC meeting that RYM women had decided the organization will be molded into a "working class, Marxist-Leninist revolutionary, anti-imperialist, problack nationalist, people's women's liberation organization."
